

Abstract of the Disclosure

A flat type core brushless motor is formed by installing a stator which is made by winding an armature coil around each of a plurality of protruding poles at a stator base. In the motor, a concave portion for escape of the armature coil is installed at the stator base.

5

005050-016350